

NEW YORK PRESS SEVERELY CRITICIZES ACTION OF THE PRESIDENT IN CONTROVERSY

Thinks Government Would be Benefited by Separation From Secretary Ballinger and Attorney General Wickersham

Prosecution is Endeavoring to Figure Out Why Lawler Draft of President's Letter Was Not Sent to the Senate as Requested.

New York, May 16.—Two New York newspapers, Press and World, comment editorially on the sensational development that Secretary Ballinger's subordinate prepared for Mr. Taft an exoneration of the secretary which later formed the basis for the president's official decision. Other New York papers ignore the incident editorially.

In part the World says: "When Mr. Taft was a judge of the U. S. circuit court he allowed no subordinate of a litigant to prepare tentative opinions for him."

"He permitted no lawyer to anticipate briefs in order to meet the claims of opposing counsel."

"He heard all the arguments himself; he read the briefs himself. He decided the case himself and the decision was the decision of Judge Taft. It was nobody else's decision. The public rightfully assumed that this was the way Mr. Taft acted in the Ballinger case too; that the president sat as a judge, that he carefully weighed all the evidence both against and for the secretary of the interior and that when he exonerated Mr. Ballinger, he was deciding as an impartial judge, uninfluenced by anything except the cold, remorseless facts."

"The country can no longer believe that this was Mr. Taft's attitude. It permitted Attorney General Wickersham to tamper with the date of a written opinion, and in allowing the assistant attorney general for the interior department to prepare a memorandum to help the president in framing his decision, Mr. Taft divested himself in his function as a judge and must now be included among the attorneys for the defense."

The Press after reviewing the entire controversy and criticizing severely Ballinger and Wickersham says:

"We think the public has been forced to the conclusion that the president though he meant to do the right thing in the Ballinger case, was misled by his secretary of the interior, by the attorney general and by others whose advice Mr. Taft felt compelled to accept, but who were more concerned with protecting Ballinger and his backers than they were desirous of helping Mr. Taft to take the wise, the just and the correct course of administration."

"We are compelled to believe that without regard to what the conclusion of congress may be the cause of conservation, the efficiency of the interior department and the popularity of the Taft administration will be benefited by the separation from it of Secretary Ballinger. Nor can we escape the conviction that Mr. Taft could easily improve upon Mr. Wickersham's attorney generalship."

The president in his letter says that he ordered Lawler to frame a letter and says he told him just what views he wished set forth. He also says he told Lawler to write the letter "as if he were president."

Taft contends however, that his instructions to Lawler were given after he had thoroughly reviewed the documents submitted by the interior department officials in their defense and that his use of the Lawler draft was confined to a few paragraphs "on general subjects."

The "prosecution" in the Ballinger-Pinchot investigation is endeavoring to figure out today why the Lawler draft of the president's letter was not sent to the senate or previously produced in answer to nearly a score of specific requests by the "prosecution."

The president sent to the senate the "summary" of Attorney General Wickersham which he has admitted was not before him in its present form, when he passed on the charges.

In transmitting the various documents to the senate, the president wrote:

"To the senate: In response to the resolution of the senate of Dec.

21, 1909—resolved, that the president be and is hereby requested, in his opinion, not incompatible with the public interest to transmit to congress any reports, statements, papers, documents, upon which he acted in reaching his conclusions with reference to the charges."

"I transmit herewith the following papers:

These the president enumerates, omitting however, any references to the Lawler memorandum and including the Wickersham summary.

Another point upon which the "prosecution" is working today is the fact that the copy of the Lawler draft was hurried to the investigation committee from the department of justice after the statement of Stenographer Kerby regarding it had been in the hands of the officials for several hours.

Kerby says that about noon Saturday, Massey, the other stenographer who worked on the Lawler letter, called upon him.

At 11:30 the department of the interior said Kerby "had been informed by telegraph of the prospective publication of my statement and the department was furnished with a resume of my statement. Massey was directed to see me and ask me if it were true, and he brought along notes as to his directions. I told him it was true, and he went away."

Three hours after Massey saw Kerby, the copy of the Lawler draft was sent to the committee by Attorney General Wickersham.

BALLINGER "FIRES" KERBY.

Washington, May 16.—Secretary Ballinger in a special delivery letter today discharged from the government service Frederick M. Kerby. The letter read in part: "You are unworthy to remain in the service. The fact that your treachery is futile cannot mitigate the character of your offense."

Discussing the letter Kerby said: "The letter dismissing me was not unexpected. Whether I acted treach-

STREET CAR MEN STRIKE

East Liverpool, May 16.—Although the Newell Street Railway company has agreed to pay the new wage scale the men demand, it refuses to sign an agreement wherein the closed shop is specified. This resulted in a general strike on the road and no cars were operated Sunday. First Vice President L. J. Thorne of the Street Railway Men's Union is here. An arbitration clause is in the franchise under which the company operates here. The line extends from this city to Newell, W. Va. About 15 miles are out.

This will keep the boys back some time, during which they are both receiving the best of attention at a hotel in Cambridge.

Former American Girl and Sister of Nicholas Longworth Resolute for Husband's Election.

London, May 16.—The political campaign in the United States is being followed with interest in London. The Marquis of Salisbury, who is the husband of the former American girl, is expected to be elected to the House of Commons.

London, May 16.—Today being White Monday, a striking proof of the national character of England's love for her dead king. Notwithstanding that King George asked the people not to let his faller's death interfere with their merry-making, the holiday is being observed in all its festive features. The fact is that the king's death has been a great loss to the nation.

WILL SWEEP EARTH NEXT WEDNESDAY

Tail of Halley's Comet to Pay Us a Visit

FEAR NO EVIL EFFECTS

Astronomers Declare Though That We Can Expect Meteorite Shower.

Boston, May 16.—Agreeing that no harmful effect is to be experienced on next Wednesday from the passage of the earth through the tail of Halley's comet, New England astronomers appeared not to concur as to the possibility of a luminous display similar to northern lights. Professor David P. Todd, of Amherst College, thinks the aurora effect probable. Professor Robert W. Willson, of the Harvard College observatory, declared there may be a darkening of the atmosphere, while Professor Edward C. Pickering, head of the Harvard observatory, said: "I doubt if there will be any effect at all."

Prof. Willson said further that "there may be a shower of charged particles, very small but numerous, which may affect wireless telegraphy. There is no cause for alarm or fear. Cyanogen exists only near the head and the tail is a good vacuum." Professor Todd declares that there will be no more sensation than that caused by the rays of light from a distant candle on a person's hand. There is an equal amount of cyanogen gas radiated from each, proportionately, he says. Leon Campbell, another of the Harvard astronomers, thinks a luminous display probable.

The increasing brilliancy of the comet as it approaches the earth was shown when Harvard College astronomers found that the body, with the coma or envelope, had reached proportions of nearly a zero magnitude, the highest stage of stellar brilliancy. The rate of increase in brilliancy is indicated by two photometric measurements taken at the Harvard observatory.

The first, on May 6, showed the nucleus to be of 7.66 magnitude. Another on Friday, just a week later, showed the magnitude to be 4.11, an increase in apparent size of 2.65 degrees.

METEORITE SHOWER EXPECTED

Washington, May 16.—Halley's comet will be greeted Wednesday on its closest approach to the earth, by a brilliant array of telescopes, flanked by rapid fire lenses, in the celestial cameras of the naval observatory, the only national observatory in the United States. The government observers are prepared for the great star that is rushing through space, and elaborate calculations have been made as to the minute and second the flying comet will be at the given places in the heavens, where it will be observed and photographed.

Among the scientists there is some difference of opinion as to the effect the great star will have upon the earth, but the differences are minor. Prof. Asaph Hall, of the naval observatory, will not be surprised if there is a shower of meteorites. He advanced his theory with the same calmness that he would prophesy a shower of rain.

Others, and they are in the majority, expect no disturbances will mark the passing of the comet. Edwin F. Nauty, of New York, who has been at the observatory taking telescopic and spectroscopic observations of the visitor, takes issue with Professor Hall and contends that the tail of the comet is composed of gas and not of meteoric bodies, and that such a shower as Professor Hall deems possible, could not follow.

NO INFLUENCE IS EXPECTED.

Chicago, May 16.—Astronomers of Chicago and vicinity who have been busy since its appearance this year, do not expect its influence will in any way be made manifest on this earth. It is composed of gases too light and is too far away to make its presence felt.

There can be but little doubt that the tail of the celestial visitor, being some 100,000 miles wide, will sweep over the earth, but we will not even feel it, said Dr. J. McPherson, astronomer at the Pan American observatory. "None of the cases of the comet will come closer than 100 miles to the earth's surface. At that distance the particle atmosphere is much more dense than the tail of the comet. Friction at the atmosphere would destroy it at that altitude, as for cyanogen gas, that is nearly around the head of the comet, although the sun's repulsion and the speed of the heavenly traveler may have forced some of it into the tail."

AMUSEMENTS

KEITH VAUDEVILLE

AT AUDITORIUM
On Thursday, May 19, the Auditorium theatre will be thrown open to the public, Keith Vaudeville being offered as the attraction. All that could be said in praise of Keith attractions is condensed in the statement that the is none better in the United States, and the management states that all those not satisfied with the worth of the bills, will be compensated by the refunding of their money.

On Thursday, the opening night and child under 12 years of age, accompanied by the parents will be admitted free. Five big acts with moving pictures will constitute the show, and an orchestra of three pieces will be an added feature.

The opening night will probably tax the capacity of the house, and arrangements can be made in advance for the reservation of tickets, for it is the first time that Newark can boast of Keith vaudeville.

ORPHEUM THEATRE.

Vaudeville as presented at the Orpheum these days is a winner and good houses saw the performances Saturday and Sunday. A funny incident happened at the performance last evening. Life seems hardly worth while when the girl in the next seat sings all the songs and tells all the answers to the jokes, while her escort carrying a groch big enough to block Main street traffic, occasionally estimates the salary of the different acts. After the show he guessed he could do better than the best on the bill, and then reserved the same two seats for tonight.

Commencing with the matinee today and continuing over Wednesday one of the strongest programs is to be presented, same being headed by the greatest of all headline acts, Harry Lukken's performing bears. These bears introduce all the latest tricks in animal training and are five in number. One of the novelty stunts they present is a boxing act between two bears. These animals are perfectly harmless and the ladies need have no fear of attending the Orpheum during their engagement.

Mitchell and Willard opened at the matinee yesterday and for fifteen minutes they were a laughing hit. They will continue for the first part of the week. Jimmy Wall, the clever comedian is here with his monologue and he is bound to have things his own way during his visit to our city, as he is a local favorite, having played here several times with the Field and Vogel minstrels. As an added attraction we have The Del Godfrey Trio, girls who sing, dance, etc. These pretty girls will wear stunning gowns and we would advise our lady patrons to come to the Orpheum this week and see what is the latest in dresses. Miss Willard of Mitchell and Willard, wears an imported dress also that has some class to it.

Regarding the "A Country Store" that Manager Fenberg will hand out to his many friends on next Thursday evening, he wishes to tell all just what it is. He has arranged with a prominent grocer of our city to place upon the stage after the performance on that evening, the reproduction of a country store. Everyone on entering the theatre on that evening will receive a numbered coupon which will entitle her or she to one chance. You may take home with you a barrel flour, a pound or two of butter, cheese, crackers, potatoes, bread, sardines, hams, chickens, cans of peas or a little of everything that is found in a grocery store. The store will be in charge of members of the acts that open here on Thursday, who will be made up to represent a country store keeper and a lot of comedy will be injected into the stunt. This will be one of the laughing hits of the season and no doubt will draw a crowded house.

WANT TO SEE COMET.

week have petitioned Manager Fenberg to grant them a half holiday on the visit of Halley's comet on that Wednesday, May 18, on account of the visit of Halley's comet on that day.

"Let us rise above the commonplace," they pray. "Let us grasp the psychological moment now at hand. What matters it that the impatient public breaks arms and legs rushing for matinee seats? There are other mad rushes scheduled for that day." The petition is signed by seven members, and even Luke's bears have asked to go, and they hope to expect the half holiday will be granted. Mr. Fenberg's answer to the petition is, that the company should wait until Wednesday, and if the comet hits the earth they all would quit.

ATHLETIC CARNIVAL TONIGHT

The biggest athletic event of the season will be the one given at the Auditorium tonight by the Newark Amusement company, and it will be one that every lover of athletics should see.

The Drumtress troupe the novelty bar artists, who have been at the Orpheum, will put on their act in full, for they will not be hampered by lack of stage room, and their work is bound to please for it was the headline at the vaudeville theatre last week.

The event of the evening will be the boxing bout between Johnnie Albans of Columbus and "Boxer" Sullivan of Lexington, Ky. Both the boxers have won reputations for themselves and their work will be of a class seldom seen in local circles where good events in the past have been numerous.

The two cyclones, Sully of Columbus and Keller of San Francisco will work in the semi-windup and their six rounds are bound to be fast and exciting. For both are masters of the art of boxing and they are evenly matched.

The preliminaries, as announced by the management, will be between Art Zimmerman of this city, and Turkey McLaughlin of Columbus. Both have appeared before Newark audiences several times and their work is too well known to need comment. Suffice it to say they are clever and fast and capable of making an interesting affair out of the preliminary.

Another enjoyable feature will be the Auditorium orchestra which will play between events during the evening, and a program of the latest musical numbers has been arranged for the evening.

OPERA BY WIRELESS.
The aria from "Carmen" sung by Mme. Mariette Mazzini, the famous prima donna, recently passed through the myriad jangling noises of the New York streets, and was gathered in all its original sweetness by the receivers of wireless telephones located several miles away. This interesting experiment is discussed in an illustrated article appearing in the June number of Popular Mechanics.

IS HAVING EFFECT.

That the agitation of the idea "back to the farm" is having its effect in the educational world and is being shown in an increasing interest in the educational work leading to scientific farming is indicated by the recent compilation of entrances at O. S. U., which shows that the students enrolled in the degree courses in agriculture in that institution increased 29 per cent this year over last year.

OUR BOYS and GIRLS

BOW-LEGGED PETER.

"Take Peter with you to grandma's, son," mother called to Toby as he went down the road. "See! He is wagging his tail almost off in the hope that you will ask him to go along."

Toby turned toward the scruffy-coated, ugly dog who was hopping eagerly on his short bow legs behind the fence.

"I don't want to take him," he said sulkily. "He's such an ugly old thing. I just hate him with his old bow legs. All the boys make fun of me and ask where I got the ki-yi. He's too ugly to live."

"Why, Toby, what a wicked thing to say! Peter can't help it. He is a good, kind dog and loves you. I am ashamed of you!"

Whenever mother told Toby that she was ashamed of him, it meant that she was feeling very much hurt about something he had done, so rather than have her feel badly, he opened the gate and whistled to Peter, who rushed out and frantically licked Toby's hand.

"That's a good boy. Give grandma my love." Mother went into the house while Toby and Peter walked down the dusky road, the dog gambling happily.

Toby didn't feel a bit like gambling. He scolded Peter as they went along.

"If it wasn't for mother I'd give you to the pound or throw you in the water to drown," he said to the dog. "You are nothing but an ugly old mongrel anyway. You can't even be taught a trick because your legs are so crooked. You're just no good for anything."

He threw a stick at Peter. Peter ran and brought it back.

As they passed Mr. Bishop's farm the Bishop boys ran to the fence and shouted:

"There goes Toby and old Peter Bow-legs! Bow-legs! Bow-legs! Old Peter Bow-legs! Why don't you get a dog with straight legs?"

That made Toby crosser than ever. Although the boys shouted at him every time he took Peter out, it seemed to make him angrier to-day than ever before. He wanted to run away and lose Peter, but he remembered mother and didn't dare.

Toby turned down the road beside the river so that he would be sure not to meet any of the boys. He walked along sulkily, hating Peter with all his might.

When they reached the bridge that spanned the deepest part of the river, Toby spied something that made him open his eyes wide. The little wild rose tree that grew down on the slanting bank had three lovely pink blossoms on it—the first flowers of the season!

Grandma loved wild roses better than any other kind of flower. She always told Toby that they were the prettiest of all, and that the fairies got the pretty pink that they painted on good children's cheeks. She told Toby all sorts of pretty stories about the flowers, but the nicest were about the wild roses.

So Toby made up his mind to get those three little blossoms for grandma. He crawled down between the bridge and the bank on his stomach, while Peter danced uneasily around him, whining and begging him to be careful. But Toby didn't listen. He hung on by his left hand to the post in the bridge and reached as far as he could with his other arm.

His arms were so short that they could not quite grasp the flowers, so he wriggled down just a little bit further and tried again. Then something happened—Toby never knew what.

All he felt was a swift slide, a drop, and then ice-cold water closing over his head. He had fallen into the river. And he could not swim a stroke!

He struggled and beat the water with his hands. After a long time he came to the top of the water. He shouted and waved his arms, looking wildly toward the bank of the stream.

No one was there except old Peter, his mouth wide open, his yellow body gathered on his bow legs, and his eyes eagerly searching for a sight of Toby.

The moment he caught sight of the boy's head he gave a short, en-

PASTOR RUSSELL'S DISCOURSE ON PENTECOSTAL BLESSINGS

GREAT WHITSUNTIDE SERMON
AT ALBERT MEMORIAL HALL

London, Eng., May 15th—Albert Memorial Hall, recognized as the largest modern auditorium in the world, was crowded today to hear Pastor Russell of Brooklyn Tabernacle, New York, on "Pentecostal Blessings."

Many of the most prominent stalls and boxes are owned by the nobility, many of whom occupied them, while others, unable to attend, graciously granted permission for their occupancy by others; but hundreds were turned away. The meeting was held under the auspices of the "International Bible Students' Association." The speaker said:

It is appropriate that on this day, celebrated and recognized as the anniversary of Pentecost, we should consider the import, and have well in mind what we celebrate. I therefore take as my text, the words of St. Peter explanatory of the occasion: "This is that which was spoken by the Prophet Joel: And it shall come to pass in the last days, saith God, I will pour out my Spirit upon all flesh; and your sons and your daughters shall prophesy, and your young men shall have the vision which your ancients dreamed of; and on my servants and on my handmaidens I will pour out in those days my Spirit, and they shall proclaim." (I give you a preferred translation)—Acts ii, 16-18.

St. Peter declares that the outpouring of the holy Spirit upon the waiting believers at Pentecost was mentioned by Joel the Prophet, but he does not say that all of the prophecy was fulfilled there and then. As a matter of fact we know that the holy Spirit was not then poured out on all flesh; it was poured out merely upon God's servants and handmaidens. A careful inspection shows us that there are two parts to the prophecy—(1) All flesh, and (2) God's servants and handmaidens. The order of the blessing is also stated. It will come upon all flesh after those days, but upon the servants and handmaidens in those days. The days mentioned evidently refer to this Gospel age—from Pentecost to the second coming of Christ.

In this period, of now nearly nineteen centuries, God's holy Spirit has been granted to his faithful ones, and to these alone. Only the fully consecrated have been accepted of the Lord as living sacrifices, and only such have been begotten of the holy Spirit, that they may be "new creatures in Christ." During all this time, the world has been unrecognized so far as the holy Spirit is concerned. Indeed, the Apostle after Pentecost went still further and declared that "the whole world lieth in the Wicked One." The only action of the holy Spirit must be, as in the case of Felix, to "reprove the world of sin and righteousness, and of a coming judgment." Our text declares, however, that the time is coming when the world will receive a share of the great Divine blessing, which was fully assured by the death of Christ. But its time of favor will be "after those days"—after this Gospel Age shall have come to an end; after the New Dispensation, the Millennium Age, shall have come. Let us note first the blessings belonging to this Gospel Age, in which we are especially interested, and subsequently let us notice the blessings that God has promised shall come to all mankind.

The Church's Pentecost.
It is not sufficient that we say that a Pentecostal blessing came upon the followers of Jesus in the upper room at Jerusalem, totally different from anything that had been known in the world before. We want to know why it was so; and if a blessing, why it did not come sooner to God's people? We remember Abel, Enoch, Noah, Abraham, Moses, Daniel, the Prophets; we recognize the fact that they were grand characters, and, as St. Paul said, "They had this testimony that they pleased God." Yet there was no Pentecostal outpouring in their day, nor until the age of man in the world was more than four thousand years. Why was this? We answer that God has his own times and seasons for the various features of his work.

We recall the words of our Lord Jesus, respecting his forerunner, "Verily I say unto you, Among them that are born of women there hath not risen a greater than John the Baptist; notwithstanding he that is least in the Kingdom of heaven is greater than he." (Matthew xi, 11). Why could not John, and others of the prophets preceding him, enter in and enjoy this Gospel favor? We answer, in the language of St. Paul, "God having provided some better thing for us, that they without us should not be made perfect" (Hebrews ix, 40). Our Creator has great gifts to dispense to our race through the Redeemer, and it is for him to determine the times and the seasons for the dispensing of these blessings, and to whom they shall go. According to the Divine arrangement, the Redeemer had first to die as man's ransom price before any of the race could come back into full relationship with the Creator. It is true that by faith Abraham and others of the past did enjoy certain of God's favors, and much of his fellowship, but none could be received into full sonship and joint-heirship with Christ, until first their sins had been cancelled. Then they could be accepted in Christ on the terms which the Father has appointed.

Those very disciples who received the blessing in the upper room on Pentecost, had forsaken sin, had become Jesus' disciples, had made full consecration of all their earthly hopes and interests, had been accepted by the Lord Jesus, and he had put his Spirit upon them, enabling them to do many mighty works in his name. However, it was one thing to do mighty works through his Spirit, or power, and another matter to possess that spirit inherently—to act directly as agents of Divine favor instead of indirectly. It is in harmony with this thought that we read that after our Lord breathed upon them the holy Spirit, symbolically imparting his Spirit, and commissioning them as his representatives to preach the Gospel, he told them, nevertheless, to tarry at Jerusalem until they were endued with power—the holy Spirit—until the Father should recognize them directly as his ministers and ambassadors.

From the standpoint of Divine Justice, the Apostles and believers were still under the sentence of death as sinners at the time of our Lord's death, at the time of his resurrection, at the time of his ascension. Then he said to them, "It is expedient for you that I go away, for if I go not away, the Comforter will not come unto you" (John xvi, 7). After the forty days, invisibly present with his disciples, except on a few occasions for a few moments each, our Lord ascended, and after ten days the holy Spirit from the Father came upon the waiting household of faith. It evidenced to them the fact that their sins had been forgiven for Christ's sake, that they were justified freely from all things through his sacrifice, and that their consecration to sacrifice themselves had been accepted of the Father, and that henceforth they might count themselves as "joint-sacrificers with Christ," "members of his Body," "members of the Church of the First-born, whose unities are written in heaven," members of the "Seed of Abraham" (Galatians iii, 29).

Keys of the Kingdom.

The Master in speaking to St. Peter assured him that to him were committed the Keys of the Kingdom of Heaven, which signified that the way into the Kingdom at that time had not yet been opened, and that Peter would be honored by being the Lord's servant to do the opening work. There were two of these "keys," and therefore there were two opening works to be accomplished.

The Church, under Christ her Lord, is God's Kingdom, not yet set up or established "in power and great glory," not yet finished or inaugurated. The work of this Gospel Age is to "call" or invite such as have a hearing ear to become joint-heirs in this Kingdom, for which he taught us to pray, "Thy Kingdom come, thy will be done on earth as it is done in heaven." So many as genuinely accept this heavenly calling, this "high calling," to glory, honor, and immortality, are probationary members of the Kingdom of Heaven. Such are Scripturally exhorted to continue faithful to their vows of consecration, and thus make their calling and election sure to a place in this glorious Kingdom, which will be inaugurated at the second coming of Christ. But the Lord instructs all saying, "Sit down first and count the cost" (Luke xiv, 28); "but if any man draw back, my soul shall have no pleasure in him" (Hebrews x, 38).

All who are thus spirit-begotten (by the holy Spirit, John i, 12) during this age are promised a spirit birth, to spirit-being in the resurrection. We read, "It is sown in corruption; it is raised in incorruption: It is sown in dishonor; it is raised in glory: It is sown in weakness; it is raised in power: It is sown an animal body; it is raised a spiritual body. . . . For this I say, brethren, that flesh and blood cannot inherit the Kingdom of God; neither doth corruption inherit incorruption" (1 Corinthians xv, 42-44, 50). The entire period between the first advent and the second advent of our Redeemer is set apart in the Divine Program for this great work of selecting from amongst men the "little flock," such as shall be counted worthy of these honors, on the spirit plane, and the privilege of participating with Messiah in his great work of the next age.

To the Jew First.

Only Jews received the Pentecostal blessing. The Gentiles were excluded for three and a half years thereafter, in harmony with a Divine promise made to the Jewish nation. Then came the time for a similar privilege to be extended to the Gentiles, and the record informs us that Cornelius was the first Gentile to be received into spiritual relationship with God. He was a good man, and had been a good man for years, he prayed often, and gave much alms to the people, but until then, the middle wall of partition separated between Jew and Gentile. Even then he could not be received of God because of his works, or prayers, or alms, but must first be instructed respecting Christ and his redemptive work, and must believe and accept the same. "Neither is there salvation in any other; for there is none other name under heaven given among men, whereby we must be saved" (Acts iv, 12), either in this age or in any other.

Thus it was that, in harmony with our Redeemer's promise, St. Peter used the "key" which introduced the Gentiles to the Pentecostal blessings. As he used the first key on the Day of Pentecost in explaining to the multitudes of Jews the meaning of the Pentecostal blessings, and the privilege that they had of entering into the Divine favor thereby, so, at this later date, the Lord instructed Cornelius to send for Peter, saying, "Send therefore to Joppa, and call hither Simon, whose surname is Peter; he is lodging in the house of one Simon a tanner by the seaside; who, when he cometh, shall speak unto thee" (Acts x, 32; xi, 14, 15). Thus were the two "keys" used by St. Peter, and thus were the doors of the Gospel favor—the high-calling of joint-heirship with Jesus—thrown open, both to Jews and to Gentiles, through faith in the precious blood. The doors thus thrown open are not yet closed; but, as we sometimes sing, "That gate was left ajar for me."

I rejoice with you today, fellow-students of the Word of God, that this great gift of God is still obtainable, that the time has not yet fully come when the door of opportunity to this high-calling must close. Close it will, so soon as the full number of the "elect" shall be completed. Thank God that another door will then open; the door of Restoration to human perfection and to earthly life, grand beyond the power of description.

But the blessed opportunity of this Pentecostal favor is still granted. As St. Peter declares in his epistle, "Whereby are given unto us exceeding great and precious promises; that by these ye might be partakers of the divine nature" (1 Peter i, 4). The door to this divine nature is the one that will soon shut, as our Redeemer illustrated in the parable of the "Wise and Foolish Virgins." When a sufficient number of "wise virgins" shall have entered to complete the bride-class, forthwith the door of opportunity to that station, to that class, to that honor, to the divine nature, will be closed, and the elect of God will be neither one more nor one less than the number originally foreordained.

"My Spirit Upon All Flesh."
St. Paul speaks of this Gospel age saying, "Now is the acceptable time; today if ye will hear his voice, harden not your hearts." Not all hear his voice in these days. The great mass of mankind have not even heard of the name of Jesus, and consequently could not harden their hearts against him, nor against the terms now offered for return to fellowship with God. This is the acceptable time or period of salvation, in the sense that God is now willing to accept the offerings of believers if they present their bodies living sacrifices. St. Paul declares that this is a reasonable service, holy and acceptable to God (Rom. xii, 1).

The testimony to the Church and the high-calling have been open during this Gospel Age. The testimony to the world and the blessings under that testimony will be during the Millennium Age. The death of Jesus is the propitiation (satisfaction) for our sins (the Church's), and not for ours only, but also for the sins of the whole world—in due time, during the Millennium Age (1 John ii, 2). For us the Apostle Paul declares, "there shall be a resurrection, both of the just and of the unjust" (Acts xxiv, 15). That will be the time for the precious merit of Jesus' sacrifice to be made known, to be understood, to be appreciated, and to bring his blessed results of restoration to who-so-ever will receive the same.

Then God's holy Spirit—holy power will, through Christ, be outpoured upon all flesh—upon all mankind. Messiah will inaugurate the new dispensation by sealing with Israel the New Covenant in his blood; as says the Lord through the Apostle Paul, "This is my Covenant with them when I shall take away their sins. As concerning the Gospel they are enemies for your sakes, but as touching the election, they are beloved for the fathers' sakes" (Romans xi, 27, 28).

This outpouring of the holy Spirit is not merely for Israel, nor God's blessing merely upon Abraham's natural seed outside the Church class. It will include all of every nation desiring of coming into accord with the will of God, after they shall have come to a clear knowledge of the Truth. All nations shall be privileged to enter into and enjoy Israel's great Covenant, by becoming children of Abraham through faith. And as reflectors of God's grace having been destroyed in the Second Death of the world of mankind will constitute the promised seed of Abraham, whose number shall be as the sands of the seashore, even as the spirit-begotten ones of this Gospel Age are likened to the stars of heaven.

The Ancient Prophets, St. Peter declares, have all spoken of these glorious "times of restitution," and it will be during these times when the Lord shall pour out his Spirit upon all flesh, that the people may realize what the Americans had seen in vision and in dreams—the wilderness blossoming as a rose, "the solitary place being glad," "mountains in the desert," "the knowledge of the Lord filling the whole earth, as the waters cover the great deep, and none needing to say to his neighbor, Know thou the Lord, for all shall know him from the least to the greatest."

SUNDAY MEETING.

The men who gathered yesterday to hear Senator Alsdorf were given a rare treat, for while his address was short, it was interesting.

Mr. Alsdorf spoke on the legislative, of our laws. He gave a description of how a bill is made, introduced in the house and through what process it has to go before it becomes a law. He spoke of the principal bills introduced during the last legislature, and how they came to be defeated or passed, as the case might be.

Next Sunday it is hoped that Col. Wilson, editor of the State Journal, will speak on "The United States."

Wilton Rugs $27.00

Probably no other name has been more absurd than the name "Wilton" as applied to rugs and carpets. It has been applied to so many qualities of rugs that the name has ceased to carry with it the impression of the best in quality. But that is what it stands for when used guardedly by stores that stand for quality. We will offer tomorrow Wilton Rugs that are Wiltons—made by The Bigelow people whose name stands for reliability even beyond that of most any other rug maker.

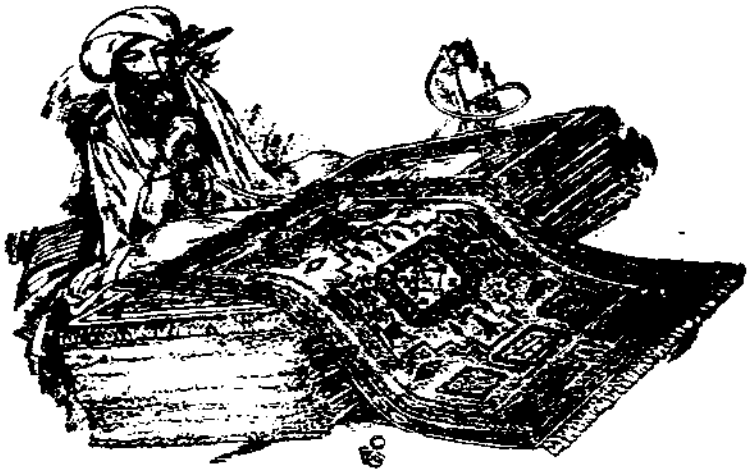

There are 15 to select from—all 9x12 feet—size—close fine texture in a line of splendid oriental patterns in tans, green and red medallions and all over. All $27.00 each.
